

Avoiding Spiritual Slavery and Fulfilling our Cosmic Connection

A physicist raised an interesting point when I presented Walking the Labyrinth at the September 2001 Shaman's Conference in San Raphael, CA. In question to my statement that "The labyrinth, in its natural spiral form, is a form of harmonic geometry that exists between dimensions, and only the spiral is able to bridge the physical with the spiritual...This is the spiral that makes up female DNA", he asked what I thought the implications of such might be.

The question brought up some very serious issues that go beyond the realm of Mayan mysteries but which, nonetheless, are very important, particularly now as we move into the prophesized "end times" in many cultures and religions. I did not address these issues in detail at the time, but believe that now is the time to address them, particularly as our scientific, corporate, social, religious and political structures are radically changing and can either move us into a new age of spirituality or destroy and enslave us.

We have approached an age, not unlike the age of ancient Atlantis, when supposedly our technology destroyed us through misuse, or on the other hand, was purposely used to destroy us. There are many end-time programs on TV now and in the major cinemas that addressing this issue. So the issue is one that certainly stands to be addressed in all its seriousness. I am not a scientist but I am a visionary and I can see the crossroad at which we stand.

There are actually two issues at hand here: the changing gravitational field around the planet and our inherent biology. Both Gregg Braden, in Awakening to Zero Point, and Drunvalo Melchizedek in the Ancient Secret of the Flower of Life, Parts 1 and 2, scientifically capture these issues in detail, in their informative books. But what they didn't address is how these sciences are at the critical point of being misused by the powers that be, who would prevent us from realizing our full cosmic potential.

First, our gravitational field is changing. As we move into the photon belt in our galaxy and out of the dark galactic night, the harmonic levels around the planet and the electromagnetic gravitational field around our planet are changing to induce a shift. There are some places on the planet that already have zero-point gravity and they are considered portals. These are some of the sacred sites that our fundamentalist religions are fighting over.

However, there are more portals than just those surrounding religious battlegrounds; there are also points around the planet that are feeling the effects of the gravitational changes sooner than others and are creating natural portal areas where many of us can cross into multidimensional consciousness. Some of these portal areas, such as Sedona, the British Isles, Egypt, and especially those areas that fall on the 19 degree, 47 minute latitudinal line (some of the mideast and much of the Yucatan peninsula), are helping the planet shift into a new dimension of consciousness.

The problem is, there are black government programs at work trying to prevent this shift and create disharmony in the gravitational and electric grid that naturally falls around the planet. One of these programs is called HAARP. The purpose in preventing us from shifting is to keep us locked in the physical realm where we can continue to function as labor for third-dimensional entities that want to control the planet for their purposes.

Now this may seem hard to believe, but look at the drastic changes just in the last year. We have an administration in the White House hell-bent on continuing to rape the planet of scarce resources that will only benefit a handful of people in the long-term and leave the planet in ruin both through plunder and war. And they are hell-bent on scaring us into believing that we are only safe if we give up our constitutional and civil rights. If this does not alarm you, read on.

Sedona, according to some sources, no longer has open portals. The men in black supposedly came in, intimidated the people there, and used their black technology to destroy and change the grid that was over the area during the last Bush administration. Read James Redfield's The Tenth Insight - Holding the Vision for more information on this type of event.

And with this administration's attempts to move into Mexico to drill for oil, the Yucatan will be next. The entire 19 degree, 47 minute latitude line is going to be immersed in either war or in a major plunder of all the earth's resources which will change the natural grid, if we do not stop the burning Bushes, who would rob us and our planet of the rare opportunity to shift. And keep an eye on Hong Kong, which is bound to turn up in the news real soon.

In addition, the sudden onset of viruses and plagues will easily enter our environments, which in itself is bad, but the inoculations could be even worse. Our DNA is such that we have the capability of becoming Gods, as we were made in God's image. However, without the change to zero-point gravity, our DNA will not easily activate. Additionally, with the covert introduction of designer viruses and inoculations that could change our DNA structure, we could be walking right into the hands of rogues who want nothing more than to keep us from evolving into multidimensional beings.

Our biotechnology is evolving such that with the mapping of our genes, private corporations are vying for the rights to the gene code, which means they can control who you are and who you are to become. We have a right to be wary and angry with the trend evolving out of this government. Again, watch the stock market to see who makes a killing!

Manipulation of our genetic codes either through viruses, plagues, inoculations, and cloning can change our inherent biology such that we no longer have the "wiring" that would allow us to shift. Even under the best of circumstances, if private corporations, not involved in black market biotechnology, were to come up with designer drugs and vaccines to increase one's ability to shift (such as in the 60s), they might only be available to select individuals and groups, either approved by the powers that be, or sold to the highest bidder.

It was no mistake that in the 60s people were tripping and having cosmic experiences. This was a preview of the “real” shift to come and the powers that be banned all mind altering substances that would expand our inherent consciousness and help our DNA to shift. They told us these drugs destroyed brain cells. Now, these substances are only used in private and government labs for black purposes. In truth, these shamanic substances expanded brain cells and when used moderately moved us in the direction of a new consciousness.

In place of these substances, they want to introduce mutant viruses that would truly destroy our brain cells and our cosmic codes and any opportunity to use the 94 percent of our brains that they have successfully kept us from using through medical ridicule (psychiatry), drug laws, or otherwise. But even without the shamanic drugs, with the natural changes in the gravitational fields, we could make the shift anyway, if they were not trying to prevent us from doing so with such programs as HAARP.

The key to a successful shift is to have the entire planet and its people move into multidimensional consciousness. This would eliminate the need for an economically driven system, everyone would know what was really going on, there would be no need for most physical resources, our planet and the people on it would heal, and we’d have the ability to move in and out of the physical at will, thus, eliminating the need for material goods.

This can only happen if we are aware of what is coming down the path. We can still make the shift; we are already reaching zero-point and we all have the ability to function and create a mass vision that can effect the outcome of the future. Some evolved people are already doing so and connecting on the mental plane. If you’ve forgotten how to do so, think back to your 60’s experiences, if you were an experimenter. If you were not, connect to a spiritual or religious experience that was particularly life-changing.

We also still have some sacred sites where we can currently function at zero point and help to widen the portals. We also still have our inherent biology and can spend quiet time forming Merkabah patterns around ourselves. (See Melchezidek’s Flower of Life) and we might want to consider doing just the opposite of what our government is telling us we need to do; instead of taking the vaccines, stay away from them until you know for sure that the plagues out there are for real, and then, only after the human sheep have already taken their doses and it becomes obvious that the majority are surviving without any repercussions.

Nobody need pay attention to any of what I am saying if it is too overwhelming; just watch the events of the next three years and determine for yourself whether you are better off living under military rule, being told what to eat and drink, where to live and breathe, what medications you can and can’t take, and what you can and can’t think. Then decide whether or not you will use your inherent biology to turn your own cosmic grid “on”, to connect to the cosmic spiritual grid that is growing around the world, to help ward off the evil HAARP vibrations of the world. And in your attempts to reconnect to the cosmic source, remember well, NOT ONLY ANGELS HAVE HARPS.
