

Mutating through the Galactic Center

Lest we think that our Milky Way galaxy is not connected to our current Earth changes and human biological changes, and lest we think that our galaxy is not in the midst of making a major transition and including our entire solar system with it, here is yet another notable and scientifically proven fact: at the core of the galactic center is a nebula, 80 light-years long, in the shape of our own spiral, double-helix DNA.

The climatic changes and DNA mutations that are currently affecting our planet and its people are evolutionary changes that cannot be stopped by our mentally and emotionally challenged government leaders regardless of their secret HAARP programs, through which they are desperately trying to influence the coming electro-magnetic shifts on the planet. While environmental neglect and manipulation has certainly contributed to the viruses and cancers that are currently inundating the planet, so too has our own DNA begun to mutate as a result of the high levels of radiation and the electro-magnetic frequency charging through the galactic center. That is, our own DNA is mutating to accommodate the major energy transitions that have begun to occur and will continue to occur through the year 2012 (the midpoint). The birth of the indigo children was only the beginning of the birth of our new 12-strand DNA structure, which will have an effect on all life throughout the galaxy.

Have you wondered why NASA has paid so much attention to the geophysical conditions on Mars? Have you wondered why the space program is being privatized? Not everyone will be able to adjust to these mutations or sustain the Earth changes. As we approach zero-point gravity there will be greater inter-dimensional frequencies bombarding us that will cause many to leave this planet either in body or without it. Cancer and other viruses will eliminate many who do not mutate fast enough, as will Earth disasters. Those with the money will either use the new biotechnologies to try to sustain their health, in many cases tampering with the inevitable, or will attempt to leave the planet and relocate; thus, the privatization of the space industry. Those without money will either pass on because of the extreme stress on their physical beings and the planet, or will manage to survive the mutations and become multi-dimensional beings.

Some will be “air-lifted” during the great changes by inter-dimensional craft, but only if their DNA can sustain the ride.

Since the Galactic Center is our “God” source, those who are fine-tuned to this energy source, or force, and those who can otherwise adjust to it through diet, meditation, visualization and focused intention on the outcome will stand a good chance of riding this 80 light-year DNA wave through the galactic center to our new multi-dimensional embodiments.

Additionally, Earth is a double-helix DNA star with a twin sister that will begin to show itself above the horizon during this transition. It is on this star that many will land following the major changes. It is a double of our planet. Many will not even realize they have moved from the current Earth. It is on this star where the new heaven on Earth will manifest for those who wish to continue living in the physical and can sustain the galactic changes.

It will duplicate our own living conditions, but without the war, plagues and environmental degradation, and will support multi-dimensional communication and inter-dimensional travel. Those who do not shift their intentions and focus, who continue to ignore all the galactic road signs, those naysayers who continue to believe that all they need do is continue to destroy life on the planet to herald a new heaven on Earth with multiple virgins freely available for every man (that is, the fundamentalists of all religions) are in for a big surprise. They will be forced to deal with the upcoming plagues and a destitute Earth as it sheds its skin. It will be generations before a new civilization rises as they de-evolve back to Neanderthal survival status. The rest may not even realize that they have left because they will make the transition in their dream-state. Those who do will awaken to a planet free of the vermin that infested planet Earth during their lifetime.
